

Students on Video training

-Theresa Dola, Catholic Communications Solomons

Twenty students with their teachers spent the day at Don Bosco Technical Institute, Henderson. They learnt camera angles and tricks and spent the afternoon putting them into practice their new found skills – as they scripted and shot short films. The wide and clean corridors and the open field gave the participants an opportunity to experiment with different shots and angles.

The Media participants were from 5 schools. St. Joseph's Secondary School presented 'Broken Family' – a short movie – scripted, shot and edited by them. They look forward to working on a script about HIV. St Nicholas presented visual clippings of happenings at the school in video format, while Don Bosco presented their first School Newsletter.

While all enjoyed the day, they said that they would much prefer longer time to build on their skills. Appreciation and thanks to all those who have been supportive of the programme.
